

Force Sensor ACB 500kg/C3

Item number: 748

The load cell ACB is used in platform-type weighing scales. Three to four load cells support a platform of any size. The output current calibration allows parallel connection of the load cells for operation at a common measuring amplifier without additional equalization.

The platform is placed on the weighing platform using three or four height-adjustable elastomer bearings (EL 120), in order to avoid twisting.

The load cell ACB conforms to the stringent European requirements for use in calibration-obligatory weighing scales. The method of protection is IP 67.

Mounting

Elastomer bearing EL 120

The elastomer bearing is the connecting element between the load cells and the weighing table or tank, silo, trough etc.

The elastomer bearing is adjustable in height, so that it is possible to achieve a uniform distribution of the load even with four load cells on an uneven foundation.

The elastomer bearing is robust and absorbs load impacts e.g. when used with vibrators.

For the installation of the load cell on a flat surface spacers 57mm x 31.8mm x 5mm with two holes of \varnothing 13mm are available.
